

Josef Marek

Author's text

In spe

There are so many beautiful texts to be musicalized. But only some of them have due to their (philosophical) quality privilege position and all the generations of creators have been turning to these texts again and again. Perhaps it is a kind of some law that with gaining years of living a man has to express his opinion of fundamental life events. There are so many beautiful texts to be musicalized. But only some them express human being's feelings most truly. And that happen to me. A man sees, hears, shakes his head unbelievably and says aloud or just within himself pleadingly - Veni, Creator Spiritus - Veni, Sancte Spiritus. There are so many beautiful texts to be musicalized.

Josef Marek