Vita circulus est
(Fókylidés)

Life is a circle – this Fokylides's quotation inspired me to musically process the theme of everlasting circulation of life, the theme repeating itself in all works of creators of all kinds of art.

A sentence composition is formally drawn as rondo with possibility of several repeating of the whole sentence. The composition goes through these parts – Aeternum /Eternity/, Tristitia /Sorrow/, Desideratio /Desire/, Spes /Hope/, Sapientia /Wisdom/, Amor /Love/, Nativitas /Birth/ and Reconciliatio /Reconciliation/. The part Aeternum is varied by rondo – it's supposed to be imaginary line of eternity – from which other parts of composition arise and to which they return again. Shortly said – We are neither the beginning nor the end.
